WITH U.S. COMBAT AIR FORCES IN THE WESTERN PACIFIC-Airman First Class David G. Bruneau, son of Mrs. Dorothy E. Bruneau of 75 Clematis Rd., Agawam, Mass., is now on temporary duty with the 4133rd Bomb Wing at a forward base in the Western Pacific.

Airman Bruneau, an administrative specialist, supports almost daily B-52 Stratofortress bombing missions against enemy targets in Southeast Asia and KC-135 Stratotanker missions that daily provide aerial refueling to the B-52s as well as fighter and reconnaissance aircraft conducting the air war over Vietnam.

He is permanently assigned to the Strategic Air Command's 99th Bomb Wing at Westover AFB, Mass.

The airman is a 1966 graduate of Springfield (Mass.) High School.

Westfield Savings Assets

WESTFIELD-Assets of Westfield Savings Bank on September 30 were $56,224,441, Arthur W. Knapp, president, told the quarterly meeting of the board of trustees at the Sheraton Inn Monday night. Henry F. Burrows, chairman of the board, presided.

Mr. Knapp said that the assets gain for the preceding year was $3,445,041, and that for the six months ended September 30, the assets increase was $2,120,032.

"Westfield Savings Bank has begun the fourth quarter of what I believe is going to be a very satisfactory year," Mr. Knapp said. "We are participating in-and sharing in-the excellent level of business activity, and we continue very optimistic about the future."

Mr. Knapp said that Westfield Savings Bank's new Agawam office is continuing to grow and that community acceptance of the banking facility is "very good."

Savings deposits on September 30 totaled $48,877,515, a gain of $2,980,601 for the year. The increase for the six-month period was $1,420,617.

Real estate loans totaled $42,748,089 on September 30, an increase of $4,278,348 for the 12 preceding months, and an increase of $1,593,930 for the six months ended September 30.

P.O. Collections

Agawam Postmaster Robert R. DeForge announces that new hours for collection of mail boxes on Sunday and Holidays. Mail collected at 2:45 from the Mail Box in front of the Post Office. Mail collected at 3:00 from the Mail Box in front of Valley Bank in the shopping center. These are the only two boxes collected on Sundays and Holidays.

Agawam Council of PTA Aims

The officers of the Agawam Council of P.T.A. announce the following program of P.T.A. work as their aim: To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church and community. To raise the standards of home life. To secure adequate laws for care and protection of children and youth. To bring into closer relation the home and school that parents and teachers may co-operate intelligently in training of the child. To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental social and spiritual education.

While my mother believes in the Golden Rule, she also advocates a second maxim, which she terms her Iron Rule; "Don't do for others what they wouldn't take the trouble to do for themselves."

Make yourself an honest man and then you may be sure there is one rascal less in the world.

WANT TO GET RID OF BUGS? THEN RECYCLE!

That's the key word - "re-cycle". It means to give back to the earth what you took out. It means to work according to Nature's laws. It is easy, it costs nothing, and it solves so many problems, for instance - bugs and pests. It has been repeatedly demonstrated by many agronomists, and a well-known fact to organic farmers, that a garden planted in rich organic soil, does not fall prey to the devastation of destructive insects.

Walk in the woods, and look at the forest floor. It is a rich humus made from falling leaves which decompose and return to the earth the elements it yielded to nourish the trees which drop the leaves which make the humus, and so it goes on, year after year. The trees and shrubs on our dwelling properties live in an unnatural condition for which we must compensate. Certainly, a swept lawn is more attractive than forest litter, but this nakedness breaks down the natural immunity of our plants and leaves them vulnerable to all comers. The answer is to compost. Those leaves that are falling now (and they wouldn't be falling so soon if your trees were properly fed and watered) should be composted, along with garden refuse, kitchen refuse, and grass trimmings. The only rules to remember are - if it is a product of nature (as opposed to plastics) it can be composted, small pieces break down faster than large twigs and stems, and your compost must be kept wet. Bacteria and earthworms will digest this, and when it has turned to humus, it should be spread under trees and used as top soil in the garden.

In conjunction with composting, is the year round use of organic mulch to discourage the invasion of garden pests. The following article by the Mass. Nurserymen's Association goes into detail.

GARDEN MULCHES

A garden mulch may serve many useful purposes. It may add organisms and nutrients to the soil around your plant or it may have some value as an insecticide. It does conserve moisture in the soil, and is extremely valuable in preventing the drying of plants by cool fall weather and winter winds.

Many materials, some organic and others inorganic in form, may be used for garden mulches. The material to choose depends upon availability, cost, need and the kind of plant to be mulched. The Massachusetts Nurserymen's Association suggests several possible materials for mulching.

Peat Moss is a sphagnum that has been dried and pressed. It is all organic and provides no plant nutrient. This material should be thoroughly wetted before it is applied around the plant, because, if it is allowed to dry out, an impervious layer may form which prevents moisture from passing through to the soil.

Peat is a sedge or reed product and contains some plant nutrient. It is very useful for moisture conservation provided that it is applied at least three inches in thickness around the plant.

Sawdust, woodchips, and shavings may also be used as mulches. One pound of Sulfate of Ammonia should be added to each bushel of these wood products to replace nitrogen in the soil that is used by the organisms to break down the wood. Ornamental shrub plantings, as well as asparagus, strawberry beds, and vegetable gardens would be the most probable spots to use this type of mulch.

Old hay and straw or salt marsh hay are valuable mulches in cold windy weather. They conserve moisture and prevent the rapid drying of plants by harsh winds. Other organic materials that may be used are tobacco stems, compost, coffee grounds, old manure, pine needles, and coarse, slow-rotting leaves.

Inorganic materials may also be used as mulches. They have an advantage of not disintegrating as do organic materials, and therefore do not require frequent replacement. Some of the inorganic mulches are black polyethylene, vermiculite, perlite, stones, and sand.

College Bound Interview Series

"College Bound" Interview Series is a unique non-profit organization comprised of accredited colleges designed to aid high school students in choosing the college which will best satisfy their needs. It provides students with an efficient means of making initial and in-depth inquiries about a variety of colleges and universities. Composed of approximately 20 colleges, this group will meet at the White House Inn in Chicopee, Mass. on Monday, October 14, 1968. Students and their parents are cordially invited to meet with the various college representatives from 3:30-9:00 P.M.

THE SCENIC ROUTE

Several years ago WRWA prepared maps and posted markers directing foliage viewers to certain routes in the valley which would lead to colorful panoramas. In recent years, however, our advice has been to "get lost" in the maze of paved and unpaved roads winding thru this watershed. The same advice holds; the tourist will eventually find his way home. And getting lost in the environment surrounding highways that lead thru forests of multicolored foliage is not the worst experience one can have.

We have too many people who live without working, and altogether too many who work without living.

It's a wise wife who knows when to overlook and when to oversee.

Militant Women against the Establishment

Forty years ago the U.S. was groaning under the same thundering oratory and rolling bandwagons that comprise a presidential election campaign, with one hair-raising difference - women were about to cast their votes for the first time in a nationwide scale.

Opponents of a woman suffrage had charged that giving women the right to vote might desex them, or might turn politics into a morality play. History has proved them wrong on both counts.

But 1920 wasn't the first time women had voted. Congress had left the decision to the states, and New Jersey at first permitted its women to vote. But men had second thoughts and the state took back the privilege

RESEARCH FOR HEALTH

A REPORT FROM THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH
BETHESDA, MARYLAND

Hearing Loss

Impaired hearing is a leading cause of chronic disability in this country. Estimates show over three million Americans with hearing defects of varying degrees.

A hearing loss may occur from a variety of causes at any time in a person's life. It may result from prenatal injury to the child if the mother has German measles during early pregnancy, brain damage to the child at birth, certain hereditary factors, or childhood diseases such as measles, mumps, and scarlet fever. Most hearing losses result from an interference with the passage of sound waves from the ear to the brain. The ear is one of the most complex and delicate organs of the human body. The outer ear has the important task of collecting sound waves from the environment. Deep within the inner ear, these waves are changed into nerve impulses to which the brain gives meaning.

In this complicated mechanism there are many parts which can be damaged by disease and prevented from functioning, resulting in some degree of hearing loss. The effects of such a loss can be far-reaching, for a hearing loss may also influence an individual's ability to speak and to understand language—his ability to communicate with others.

When a block occurs before sound waves reach the inner ear, the loss is called conductive. Acute or chronic infection of the middle ear is the most common cause of such a block. Enlarged adenoids also are sometimes a cause. These problems can be corrected by medical or surgical treatment.

Interference in sound transmission also results when the stapes, a tiny bone which vibrates sound waves into the inner ear, becomes anchored by a bony tissue growth. This condition, known as otosclerosis, can often be corrected in an operation called stapedectomy. In this, the blocked stapes bone is replaced with a short, narrow tube of plastic or stainless steel wire or a piece of the stapes itself. A hearing aid may be helpful for this type of loss.

When something goes wrong within the inner ear, along the nerve pathways to the brain, or in the brain itself, a more serious loss called perceptive or nerve deafness results. Hearing aids are less satisfactory for this condition, but special auditory training or speechreading may be useful.

A hearing aid cannot cure deafness. It can compensate for some hearing losses. Often these devices help restore the hard-of-hearing to useful business and social lives. Recent advances in technology and design have dramatically improved the style and wearability of these aids. However, only a qualified physician can determine if use of a hearing aid would be beneficial for the individual.

The search for information on the functions of the ear has already led to new understanding of hearing disorders. This work is sponsored by the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness and other research institutions.

To further this research, a network of "temporal bone banks" has been established at leading medical centers and universities. Through this program, a person with impaired hearing can help future generations by willing his temporal bones (which contain the middle-ear and inner-ear structure) for scientific study.

Consumer news

The cold weather is almost with us again, and so, unfortunately, is an all-too-common cold weather fraud. Widows and women living alone are the most frequent victims of this scheme, but as the Consumer Protection Division's records show, anyone can be victimized.

The fraud entails a scheme to frighten people into believing that their lives are in danger due to faulty furnaces and plays on all the emotions of the victim involved. Here is how it works:

Mrs. Jones, a woman in her mid-sixties, is sitting in her house on a fall afternoon, when she hears a knock at her door. Opening it, she finds a very personable young man, whom we'll call Mr. Con, standing before her. Mr. Con represents himself as an employee of the "XYZ Furnace Inspection Service" and says that he has come to inspect her furnace.

He then goes down to the cellar and attaches an impressive-looking machine to various parts of the furnace. His expression changes from one of interest in his work to one of concern, and then finally to a look of horror.

"Mrs. Jones", he says, "you shouldn't spend another night in this house. In fact, it's a miracle this rusty old thing hasn't blown up already. Why the temperature in there is over 600 degrees!"

Having a furnace "ready to blow up" in one's house would certainly be disturbing to anyone. Naturally Mrs. Jones is concerned and asks what she should do. Mr. Con has the answer. He just happens to know someone in the furnace repair business who can install a "corrective baffle" that very day, if she can pay $1000 in cash.

If Mrs. Jones shows hesitancy or reluctance, or balks at the proposition Mr. Con may try theatrics. "You remind me of my mother," he says. "I'd be frightened to death if she lived in this house. For my peace of mind, won't you have it repaired today?" In many cases, Mr. Con will even drive the lady to the bank to be helpful.

His next step is either to skip town as soon as the money is in hand, or to install a useless, or even harmful, piece of copper tubing and then skip town.

That is just how the sleazy operators work in this racket. Now it is of course wise to be sure that your heating system is in good working order, and to contact any of the reputable companies in the field for this purpose.

The moral of this story is:

(1) Watch out for people who sell furnace repairs on a door-to-door basis. It is not common practice for companies to seek business this way. If the local fire department is checking on heating systems its representatives are clearly identifiable by their uniform, identification, and official vehicle.

(2) Once a bogus furnace repair man gets in your cellar, he may purposely damage your furnace to make repairs necessary.

(3) If you suspect something is out of line, call your local police immediately, then inform the Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce, and be sure to get identification of the person, such as his license plate number. Please refer suspicions of fraud to: Attorney General Elliot Richardson, Consumer Protection Division, State House, Boston, 02133.

TOWN OF AGAWAM
MASSACHUSETTS
ARTICLE 8. VOTED 119 YES to 0 NO to amend the Zoning By-Law as adopted in 1960, and as amended, by the following Amendment:
By deleting paragraph (5) on Page 2, DEFINITIONS, as it now appears and by inserting the following:
(5) APARTMENT HOUSE...A building of fire resisting construction, as herein defined, arranged and having accommodations for five or more families with separate or joint entrances, services, or facilities. For the purpose of this Zoning By-Law, Town of Agawam, Mass., the above definition includes Garden-Type Apartments and like residences by whatever name they may be called.
(Voted on March 16, 1968 Session of Annual Town Meeting)

ARTICLE 9. change the Residence A-3 District Zoning By-Law as adopted in 1964 to read as follows:
1. Uses: In a Residence A-3 District, as indicated by the Building Zone Map, no building or other structure shall be erected, altered, or used and no land shall be used or occupied for any purpose except for Apartment Houses or Garden-Type Apartments, and accessory uses incident thereto and subject to the following restrictions:

(a) Subdivision control will not apply except insofar as it applies to road construction, surface drainage, and utilities.

(b) The project shall be located on a lot containing not less than 2 acres and contain not more than 8 family dwelling units per acre of lot area. The building coverage shall not exceed 40% of the lot area. The minimum lot frontage on a street shall be 150 feet.

(c) No building shall be located nearer than 40 feet from a street line or other property line.

There shall be a landscaped strip of not less than 15 feet in width appropriately planted with lawn, trees and shrubs adjacent and parallel to all property lines of the site.

There shall be a landscaped foundation strip of not less than 10 feet in width between each building and any roadway, drive, or street. Said strip to contain a 6 foot wide grassed and planted area and a 4 foot wide sidewalk or walkway adjacent to any roadway, drive, or street within the project.

(d) No building shall be more than 2 stories in height exclusive of basement. The basement shall not contain any living quarters.

(e) The minimum distance between any two buildings on the same lot shall in no case be less than 40 feet.

(f) No building shall contain more than 8 family dwelling units, and no dwelling unit shall contain less than the following minimum floor areas:

1. One bedroom units 400 sq. feet
2. Two bedroom units 600 sq. feet
3. Each additional room 120 sq. feet
In computing floor area, only the space within the dwelling unit used exclusively for living purposes shall be considered. Halls, closets, stairways, bathrooms, and lavatories are expressly excluded from this computation.

All stairways are to be contained within the building structure proper. Each dwelling unit shall have access to not less than two (2) egresses remote from each other and so arranged that to reach one (1) egress it will not be necessary to pass thru a common corridor or hallway which serves the other egress. The term egress is as defined in Sec. 101.0 of the Department of Public Safety, Board of Standards, Building Code.

(g) Parking space shall be provided at the rate of 2 spaces for each family dwelling unit. Each space to contain a minimum of 200 square feet and be located at least 25 feet from any principal building, except if garage parking is to be located within the building it must comply with the Rules and Regulations governing construction of garages contained in Form FPR-4 of the Mass. Dept. of Public Safety, Board of Fire Prevention Regulations.

There shall be no provisions for parking on roadways, drives, or streets.

The balance of the lot not used for building (s), roadways, drives, street, or parking area shall be suitably planted and landscaped and maintained.

(h) Space contained in apartment units or garden-type apartment units shall not be used, rented, or leased for any commercial or business uses.

(i) The plans for any such apartment or garden-type apartment shall be submitted to the Planning Board for its approval as to site layout, provisions for handling vehicular traffic flow, parking area, and landscaping before a building permit is issued.

(VOTED on March 23, 1968 Session of Annual Town Meeting.)

ATTEST:

Boston, Mass. August 23, 1968

OUT OF HAND

Walter Joyce, editor of Marketing Communications, writes:

"Will the advertising business curb its abuses of decency before government steps in? Cigarette advertising continues to be a disgrace. The repeated association of cigarettes with robust people enjoying the freshness of the great outdoors is a transparent and cfrnsive play."

Women

in 1807. As women joined the labor force in the new factories, and began to help men fight for temperance and the abolition of slavery, they gained a forum to air their pet peeves.

A meeting at Seneca Falls, N.Y., which has been called the first woman suffrage convention in the U.S., stirred public discussion in 1848. Two years later reformers, male and female, from the entire country assembled at Worcester, Mass., as the Woman's Rights Convention. The crusade was in full swing when the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment divided the forces of reform.

The radicals, led by Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton, opposed the amendment because it gave the vote to Negro men but not to women. They organized the National Woman Suffrage Association. A more moderate group founded the American Woman Suffrage Association and concentrated on persuading the states rather than the federal government to grant voting rights to women. In 1872 the determined Miss Anthony was arrested for voting and her trial focused wide attention on the feminist fight.

Several states granted woman suffrage in the 1890's and others began to take the idea more seriously. At the time, the suffragists reunited in the National American Woman Suffrage Association and prepared for the big push. Their chance came with World War I and the expanding role of women. Militant womanhood descended on Washington, D.C. They paraded through the capital, picketed the White House and carried on hunger strikes in jail. In 1917 a woman suffrage amendment to the Constitution was submitted to the House of Representatives. The pressure was stepped up and in 1918 Woodrow Wilson personally went before a joint session of Congress to urge passage.

Congress took action and the last of the necessary three-fourths of the states approved the Nineteenth Amendment in August, 1920, just in time for the presidential election.

Zundell on Forest Park

Longmeadow Selectman Clifford M. Zundell, candidate for Hampden County Commissioner, said today he believes the growing financial burden of Springfield's Forest Park could benefit from "an imaginative appraisal" of the situation by the Hampden County Commission.

"In recent years Springfield city officials have spoken more often of the increasing cost of operating Forest Park, and just recently we read of a proposal for an admission charge to one area of the park," Mr. Zundell said.

"Forest Park is one of the finest recreational resources in this area.

"It may be reasonably assumed that it is, from the point of view of usage and enjoyment, more than just a city park. The people who visit, come from the surrounding communities, and even from other states.

"Forest Park may be described as a regional recreation facility, much as is the Mount Tom Reservation, where the Hampden County Commission last year spent $43,000 in its joint supervision of the reservation with Hampshire County.

"I don't know that Springfield could look to the other cities and towns for actual financial assistance in the operation of Forest Park, but I do believe that the Hampden County Commission could coordinate and stimulate an attitude of regional interest which might lead to a sharing of the financial burden that is now borne by Springfield alone.

"This would be a new area of endeavor for the commission, but I think this is a need. The Hampden County Commission must make itself a more effective force, and I will if elected work toward this goal."

IN OR OUT

Do you have morning glory vines in pots outdoors? Move them inside and enjoy them.

Morning glories that were grown in pots outdoors can be brought inside well before frost to fill a new role as house plants.

While it is true that they require a position right next to the glass of a south-facing window in order to continue to flower, many homes can furnish this.

And what a joy it is to see their cheery blooms each morning that the sun shines!

Repotting into a larger pot rarely is possible because the vines are tall and brittle, therefore too likely to break.

For this reason fertilizer should be given regularly to keep the vine growing and flowering. Be sure the soil is thoroughly wet first, then apply dry fertilizer or water with a liquid solution.

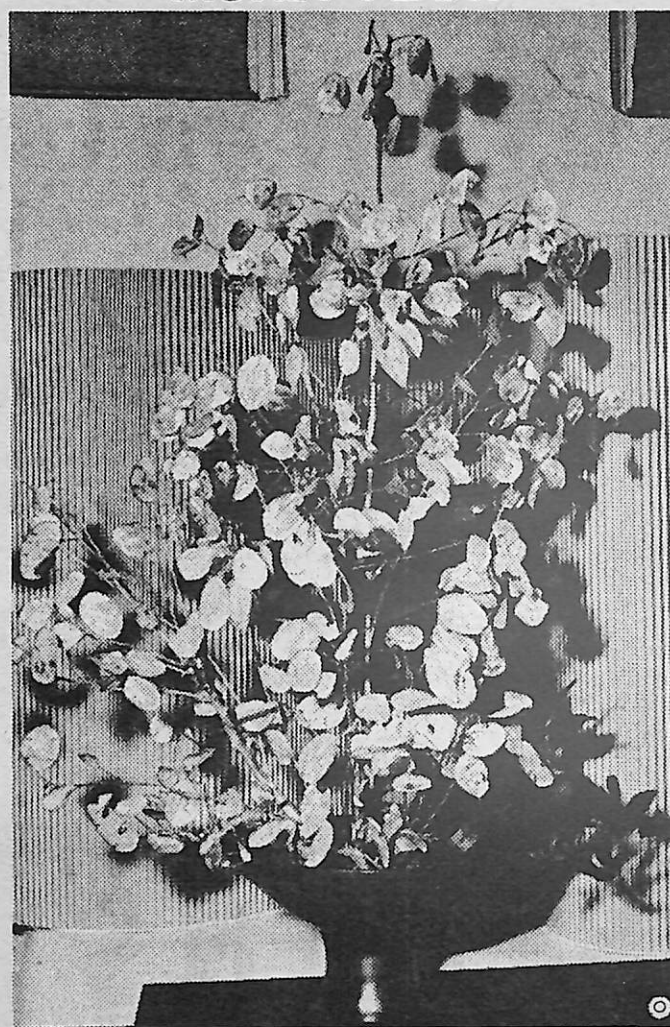

Keeping dead flowers picked off as they become unsightly also encourages the plant to set new buds and thus produce more flowers.

A morning glory vine rarely survives the entire winter, so accept this fact and simply enjoy the plant while it does well for you.

MONEY PLANT

The silver membranes of money plant are exposed to view by carefully removing the brown skin on either side of each silver oval.

You've undoubtedly been told that money does not grow on trees. But it does grow on one particular plant, commonly known by a good many different names: money plant, silver penny, honesty, Pope's penny, penny plant. Choose the one you like the best, but do try to grow your own "money".

Seeds of this interesting plant can be sown this fall or in early spring. If your climate will permit the plants to come up this fall, better put the seeds in now. For money plant is a biennial and produces only leaves the first year — blooms and grows money the second. By fall seeding, you save a year.

This plant thrives in shade as well as sun and is beautiful in flower; the blooms a deep, red-purple. Don't pick them for you'd just be picking off your money.

When flowers fade the seedpods form; flat, oval, and covered with thin, brown "skin", under which are the seeds, attached to a silver membrane. This membrane is the ornamental part of the plant which can be used, dried, for winter decorations.

The silver pennies are borne on sturdy stems and need not be removed from them. The entire stem with all its membranes laid bare can be used as a unit.

An arrangement of money plant stems alone is interesting but prettier arrangements by far are made when only a few stems are used for height and line, while rounded heads of strawflowers or some similar plant give weight at the base.

You'll enjoy the interest your pennies create among your friends. Perhaps you can buy each a packet of seeds and start them growing their own money.
